

A black and white line drawing of a forest scene. In the foreground, a stream flows over several large, smooth rocks. The water is depicted with simple lines and small ripples. The background is filled with tall, slender trees and dense foliage, creating a sense of a deep forest. The overall style is that of a traditional woodcut or a detailed pencil sketch.

Their line is gone out through all the earth, And their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun,