

A detailed black and white line drawing of a forest landscape. In the foreground, a stream flows from the left towards the center, with several large, flat rocks protruding from the water. The water is depicted with simple, wavy lines. The background is filled with a dense forest of tall, slender trees with thick trunks and full, rounded canopies. The trees are drawn with fine lines for the foliage and thicker lines for the trunks. The overall style is that of a traditional woodcut or a detailed pencil sketch.

More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold; Sweeter also than honey and the droppings of the honeycomb.