

The background of the image is filled with a repeating pattern of stylized globe outlines. Each globe is represented by a circle with several curved lines intersecting to create a grid-like structure, mimicking the latitude and longitude lines of a globe. The lines are black and of varying thickness, giving the pattern a hand-drawn or sketchy appearance. The globes are scattered across the entire page, some partially cut off by the edges.

Ashner